

Ivan Hofman

*The Valorization of the Fund Material of Education and Science From the Agitprop
Period (1946–1948)*

Summary

Valorization represents the most important part of the process of sorting and processing archival material. How a certain document, subject and dossier will be evaluated depends on several criteria. In the valorization process of educational and cultural funds from the 1945 – 1948 period above, all historical and social circumstances in which the documents were created were taken into consideration, as well as the criteria of the content value of the documents. In the valorization process consideration was taken concerning the latest tendencies and achievements of historiography in order to avoid permanent loss of material, which in various ways reflects the social phenomena and processes.